Flood at Wells River, Vt., Expected.

The paper mills at Wellsriver, Vt., are expected to give out every minute, which will flood the village. The people are clearing out their houses as fast as possible. No through trains on the Montpelier and Wells River road to-day.

Connecticut River Threatening to Overflow.

Hancock, N. H., May 11.—Heavy rains have caused the Connecticut river to rise to a dangerous height; the Northern trains are delayed; the wagon roads on the Vermont side are under water and impassable, and serious damages have already been reported.

Woodville, N. H., May 11.—The Connecticut river is still rising, and is now 18 inches higher than at any time during the past ten years. The farmers are suffering much loss. Wells river is flooded, and the people are using boats in the streets. Fifty feet is washed away on the Portland and Ogdensburg road at Lunenburg. The Vermont trains on the Boston, Concord and Montreal road go no further than Lancaster, and the night express train was laid up to-night.

Reservoir in Danger.

Boston, May 11.—The reservoir at Smart's Pond near Lynn, New Hampshire, which furnishes the water supply for the manufacturing villages of Canaan and Enfield, is in great danger of giving way. If it does, the result would be disastrous in the extreme. A large force of men are repairing breaks; but they have accomplished little, and to-night the danger is imminent.

Stage Robbery.

Galveston, May 11.—Two stages from San Antonio to Kingsbury were stopped and the passengers and mail robbed, about eight miles west of Seguin's. The passengers say there were three robbers, who secured $600 in currency and two Spencer rifles, besides all the mail matter.

Crop Prospects in Kansas.

Topeka, May 11.—Specials from twelve places, representing nearly the whole of Kansas, show that the wheat crop is universally better than ever before and at least 20 per cent., on an average, more than last year. About 10 per cent. of last year's crop is on hand. The preparations for corn planting show there will be a much larger average, probably 25 per cent., than last year. Planting is late, not over 10 per cent. being now in the ground, but the prospects are that all will be planted in the next ten days, if the weather continues good.

Silver Coinage.

Washington, May 11.—There has been a comparatively small demand upon the Treasury for silver in exchange for fractional currency within two or three days, and the amount paid out has not been so great as expected.

West Virginia Republican Convention.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 11.—The Republican State Convention met at Clarksburg to-day. The exact standing of the delegates appointed is not known, but there is no doubt they are largely for Blaine.

CANADA.

Schooners Launched at Montreal.

Montreal, May 11.—Two schooners for the French government were launched from Cartier's ship yard to-day. The French consul and a large number of invited guests and citizens were present.

High Water.

The Ottawa river has not been so high since 1857. The shipping of lumber is almost entirely suspended. Reports from Arnprior state that the village is deserted, the water is flooding Pembroke, Hawkesburg and other places, and a number of mills have been obliged to shut down. Wharves have been damaged and lumber piles floated off. At Portage, Dufort and Chaudiere, the lumber yards are completely submerged. The water had risen two feet in 24 hours to-day. Baldwin's elevated railway and 75,000 feet of lumber have been carried away. The water is still rising.

THE TERRITORIES.

Farmers say the largest crop of wheat ever raised in Utah will be produced this season.

A letter from New Mexico states that the Greasers are warming up about Brigham and his purpose to gobble up that country.

At the municipal election in Tacoma, recently, Messrs. Chambers, Walters, Howes, Ackerson and Whipple were elected trustees.

The new iron bridge erected over the Weber by the Utah Central Railroad Company is in danger of being carried away by the high water.

The water in Salt Lake valley is higher than it has ever been since the settlement of the Territory. By going on to the hills above Salt Lake City a sheet of water spreading over thousands of acres of meadow land is presented to view, while every creek and slough within the range of vision is full to overflowing.

Andrew St. Martin, who escaped from the county jail of Thurston, over one year ago, has recently returned from British Columbia, in custody of Sheriff Billings. His history is similar to that published concerning Dabney Jones, since his escape. Again the two occupy cells in the Olympia jail, where they will have time to study over the uncertainties of escape from the demands of justice.

Bids for supplying fresh beef on the block to the troops stationed at Fort Walla Walla were opened on Tuesday of last week. Only two proposals were offered: one by A. Scholl, who asked $6 50 per hundred, the other, by W. Kirkman, who asked $5 98 per hundred. Mr. Kirkman received the contract. Last year Mr. Kirkman was awarded the beef contract at $2 15 per hundred. He is now filling that contract with beef that he pays four cents per pound for.

The Boise Statesman of May 6th says: "Charley Adams is just arrived from the upper Weiser country, and reports the waters very high. The snow is still quite deep in the mountains. Solon Hill is now making weekly trips with the mail and express between Indian valley and Warrens. Payette lake is still frozen; Mr. Hall crosses it on foot at a point where it is ten miles wide. There are yet one hundred miles of snow-shoeing on that route."

THE COACHING MANIA.

New York has adopted the latest English fashion of horsemanship. The Coaching Club of that city had its parade on Saturday, and it is said to have been a very successful display. A prominent member of the club announces that on and after May 1st his coach and-four will be daily at the disposal of a limited number of persons who desire to make the trip from Madison square to New Rochelle and return—fare, $1 50 each way, box seat, 50 cents extra; 18 pounds of baggage to each passenger free; parcels carried at moderate rates and punctually delivered. The novelty of the enterprise consists in the fact that the driver of the coach is its owner, a gentleman of abundant means, who takes to the road for the amusement of driving his four-in-hand or to accommodate the public or to create a sensation, or for all of these considerations combined. This is no new thing in England, where persons of rank and fortune make their daily drives with the most praiseworthy regularity, never missing a trip or an available fare in wet weather or dry, hot or cold. New York has simply caught the mania and followed the fashion.

The theme widens as one contemplates it. Why limit the ecstasy of menial elegance to the stable? A few amateur milk routes might be commended to the fancy of those who have a few spare hours in the early morning. All cannot, indeed, be coachmen, teamsters or dairymen, but there are doorsteps and pavements and streets to be cleaned. There is no good reason why a retired merchant, might not, with a little practice between hours, learn to polish a pair of boots on Chestnut street well enough to arrest the attention of every passer by. One or two bank presidents on Broad street with hot waffles would do well—conspicuously so. These are but hints of the extent to which we may carry this most commendable fashion. In these days when the cobbler is rather disposed to get away from his last, it is comforting to know that the drudgery of life is being sought as an honorable service by those who have hitherto been supposed to feel above it. And since no man can foretell how little good his heirs and attorneys may do on his account after he is gone every needed encouragement should be given to all of fortune's favorites who are willing to father their own benefactions and take their compensation in newspaper notoriety.—Philadelphia Times.

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

Philadelphia, May 11.—The attendance at the exhibition to-day is estimated at from 25,000 to [illegible] up to one o'clock. Many distinguished guests who were at the opening yesterday, are visiting the exhibition to-day. Several foreign ministers, including those of England and Chili, are now on the grounds, and there are many members of Congress, army and navy officers, and nearly all the State governors and dignitaries, who attended yesterday. The weather is delightful.

New York, May 11.—The journals this morning are almost wholly given up to accounts of the scenes and incidents at the opening of the Centennial yesterday. The general opinion is that the opening day was a success, auguring well for the exhibition. Herr Wagner's "Centennial March" has taken greatly with the people who have heard it, although some critics think it is not equal to the famous Kaiser March or the "Huldigungs." Some disappointment has been expressed that the illustrious composer had incorporated no well known American air in the march, but it now turns out that "Yankee Doodle" composes the entire latter part of the march.

The people in New York seem only to have begun to think that this is Centennial year. Still the public buildings, ships in the harbor, etc., are decorated with flags and bunting, though [illegible] thunder showers interfere sadly.

The "Sun" on the Centennial.

The Sun says: Grant read his speech and his reading was inartistic and manner listless; and to cap all a man fell in a fit during the reading and in the confusion nobody could hear. Out of doors much of the walking had to be done in the mud, many of the fences had not been removed, and on every hand there was a lack of completeness; the restaurants were inadequate, and everything was eaten before a fourth of the demand had been supplied. There is a strong probability the Exhibition will open on Sundays. The soldiers are a mere caricature and only fit to serve in a burlesque. Wagner's March was a dead failure.

Movements of Distinguished Visitors.

Philadelphia, May 11.—Most of the distinguished persons who participated in the opening ceremonies, still remain in the city, but their movements during the day have been of a private character. Grant and Fish received calls during the morning and they went out to visit several friends this evening. At 7 o'clock, the President and members of the Cabinet remaining in the city, dined with Sir Edward Thornton at St. George's Hall. The Presidential party will leave to-morrow morning for Washington. Bristow and wife, and Postmaster General Jewell, left for Washington this morning. Taft will remain until to-morrow. Gen. Sheridan left for the West this morning. Chandler, Robeson and Pierrepont still remain as the guests of A. E. Borie.

Independence Hall.

One of the principal points of interest about the city just now is Independence Hall. The original declaration, and original commission of Washington as commander in chief of American armies, which are in a fire proof safe, fully exposed to view, attract much attention from all visitors. The National Museum, in the same building, is also largely visited.

Dom Pedro.

One of the first visitors to the Exhibition grounds this morning was the Emperor of Brazil. His visit was more especially to the machinery hall, where he carefully inspected the great Corliss engine. His visit was brief, and after a short stroll through the grounds he left the city, accompanied by the Brazilian minister and three or four attendants for Wilmington, Delaware, to inspect the Jackson & Sharp Company's shops, of that place. After going through their car works, he visited several other large manufacturing establishments, including the ship yards, morocco factories, etc. After expressing himself very much pleased with his trip, he returned to this city in the afternoon to attend a banquet given to-night by the British minister, Thornton. The Emperor will leave for New Orleans in a day or two, where he will remain for several weeks, and then again return to Philadelphia to witness the Exhibition in detail. Donna Theresa will remain in this city. Governors Ingersoll, Rice, and Senator Ferry, Chief Justice Waite, Justices Davis and Brakely of the supreme court, ex-Speaker Blaine, Mayor Wickham of New York, and a number of Congressmen, also visited the grounds.

Number of Exhibits at Agricultural Hall.

The entire number of exhibits received at Agricultural Hall up to 8 o'clock on Tuesday was 774. Fifty cars are on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks and three vessels at the wharves on the Delaware filled with exhibits for the Exhibition.

Art Treasures.

A large number of foreign paintings by the most celebrated painters were received to-day at the Art Gallery.

The work upon the French pavilion, which unfortunately collapsed a short time since has been resumed, and it will be completed in a few weeks.

The inauguration of American State and foreign buildings will, in most cases, be unattended by any formalities.

Rush for Hotel Rooms.

The rush for hotel rooms though not so great as on Tuesday continues very steadily.

The Boston cadets leave for home to-morrow.

130,000 Persons Present.

No official report of the exact number of persons, paying and non paying, who entered the grounds on Wednesday has yet been made, but the closest estimate put the number at 130,000, of whom 30,000 entered free. The official figures for to-day's attendance, 35,000.

The Centennial Commissioners met at 3 o'clock this afternoon and held an executive session for the discussion of the programme for the Fourth of July celebration. No conclusion was reached.

Grand Musical Performance.

The Woman's Centennial Music Hall at the Forest Mansion, at the corner of Broad and Master streets opened to-night with the grandest musical performance ever given in any music hall in Philadelphia. Theo Thomas repeated his magnificent programme of the Centennial opening ceremonies with his orchestra of 150 artists and the full chorus of nearly 1,000 voices. The Grand March by Kiel, and Wagner, the violin parts of which were scarcely audible in the open air, had a splendid effect in the hall.

Grand Dinner Given by Sir E. Thornton.

Sir Edward Thornton gave a grand dinner to-night at St. George's Hall in this city. 100 invitations were issued. The room was tastefully decorated. At one end was a full length portrait of Queen Victoria, on either side the American and British flags. The orchestra stand at the opposite end of the room was profusely decorated with flags of all nations, those of England and America being gracefully intertwined. Among the most prominent of the guests were Dom Pedro, President Grant and Col Fred D Grant, Secretaries Fish, Robeson, Chandler and Taft, Attorney General Pierrepont, Chief Justice Waite, ex-Speaker Blaine, G W Childs, Representatives Faulkner, Randall and Kelley, Professors Baird and Henry, Senator Ferry, Gen Hawley, Samuel Ward, of New York, Col Thos A Scott, Hon Elijah Ward, of New York, Ex Gov Bigler and Ex Mayor Fox. The diplomatic corps was represented by those serving as Commissioners from their respective governments, and British Consul Archibald. The President and the more prominent guests, with Sir Edward and Dom Pedro, were at the head of the principal table.

After the dinner was over, Sir Edward alluded to the President, twice elected, as having presided over the ceremony of inauguration yesterday, and spoke of England's having contributed her mite to the exposition, that there was only rivalry in arts of peace between two countries could never be forgotten. He wished the company to drink the health of the President of the United States. This was done and the band played "Star Spangled Banner" amid applause. The President then thanked Sir Edward for the kind allusion to his countrymen. He knew of no better reply than to ask them all to drink the health of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, which was done while the orchestra played the national air of England.

General Mohammedan Outbreak Feared.

The Daily Telegraph in an editorial says: "If we are not mistaken the English Ambassador at Constantinople has informed the government that the situation is critical, and a violent outbreak in which the Christians will become victims may occur at any time throughout Turkey, even in Constantinople. We should not be surprised, therefore, if the English Mediterranean squadron were ordered immediately to Besika at the mouth of the Hellespont, as it was on the eve of the Crimean war."

A special from Berlin says it is understood that Count Andrassy, Austrian Premier, has expressed views strongly adverse to Austrian armed intervention in Turkish complications.

Down with the Gambettists and Orleanists!" He was arrested amid considerable confusion, the majority, however, considering it a freak of insanity. On appearing before the Questor Bastion said, "I have fulfilled my duty. You can do what you like with me." He was released.

Twenty battalions arrived at Scutari and five at Antivari.

In view of the eventual necessity of a holy war, he hopes all the powers will take prompt measures to prevent the horrors which may be foreseen.

The Salonica Outrage.

Paris, May 11.—The Le Temps says no arrests have yet been made in Salonica. The bodies of the victims remained unburied yesterday. Assassination is too usual an occurrence. The Mussulmen were previously much agitated by the news from Herzegovina, they had assembled several times for the purpose of preparing for the massacre of the Christians. The French consul at Salonica had been insulted several times.

Dispatches from Salonica as late as yesterday evening say that fresh disturbances are apprehended there. The Christians closed their shops. The military force is insufficient to restrain the mob.

The House debated the vote of censure moved by Sir Henry James on the course of the government in regard to the royal titles act, declaring that the royal proclamation did not fulfill the pledges under which the bill was passed. Sir Henry James, the Marquis of Hartington, Sir William Harcourt and Mr Childers supported, and Sathorne, Hardy and Disraeli spoke against it. After an animated discussion a division was had and the motion was rejected by 331 to 226.

WEST INDIES.

Decree affecting Denizens in Cuba.

Havana, May 11.—A decree has been issued declaring the claims made by foreigners residing in the island, and by some of their consuls, to exemption from extraordinary contributions, is founded in error, that all foreigners under the protection of the government must pay all Spanish taxes levied in accordance with articles 33 and 34 of the act relating to strangers, passed by the Cortes in 1870. The contributions imposed in this island cannot be said to be for war. The pursuit and punishment of incendiaries, principally negroes, who have no army in our territory, is not war. Treaties between Spain and other countries except foreign residents from confiscation of their vessels, forced occupation of landed property and personal military duty, but not from taxes and contributions rendered necessary for the protection of the property of all against incendiaries and murderers; therefore, all municipalities must proceed against foreigners who refuse to pay said taxes. This decree is understood to be principally against the Germans, who claim exemption under the treaty between Germany and Spain.

Habeas Corpus Case for the Possession of a Child.

San Francisco, May 11.—Last night sheriff Morse of Alameda county, and Chas Sonntag deputy license collector of this city, took possession at Oakland of a boy three and a half years old, who is claimed by Sebastian Quagliani, a rider in Queen's Circus, as his adopted son. The child was taken on a writ of habeas corpus from the supreme court on the ground that he was unlawfully retained from his parents who live in New York city. Some effort was made by the attaches of the circus to prevent the taking of the child who was in bed at Amelia hotel. The matter came up in the Fifteenth District Court to-day. The child is reported to have stated to the deputy sheriff that Quagliani was in the habit of whipping him because he did not practice properly for exhibition at the circus. Mr. Sonntag, who is well known in connection with the society for the prevention of cruelty to animals and active in seeking to organize a similar society for the prevention of cruelty to children, received a letter and telegram from New York requesting him to assume charge of the child, which was illegally restrained by Quagliani. The mother of the child, Mrs. McCabe, alleges that the child was only temporarily entrusted to the care of Quagliani; but that on her subsequent desire to reclaim him, she was denied and not permitted to see him. Some disposition of the case will probably be reached this afternoon.

In the case of the child Varry McCabe, taken from Quagliani, a rider in Queen's circus, last night, and brought before Judge Dwinelle on habeas corpus this morning, the Judge decided to give the child to the custody of Charles Sonntag pending the arrival of evidence from New York. The case bids fair to occasion considerable interest.

The proponents and contestants of the will of the late J. H. Blumenberg have moved in the Probate Court for a new trial—the proponents as to the second will, on all statutory grounds; and the contestants of the first will as formerly. It will be remembered that the jury found that the signature to the first will was genuine, but that he subsequently executed another will.

Central Pacific vs A. A. Cohen.

In the case of the Central Pacific Railroad Co vs A. A. Cohen, Judge Wright to-day granted an order that the company be required to furnish for the inspection of the defendant, and that he be permitted to take copies of the following papers: The lease from Henry B. Tichener to Western Pacific Railroad Co., dated October 20, 1869; the contract between Tichener and the Contract and Finance Co., dated Oct. 20, 1869; the contract between the same parties, dated Oct. 26, 1870, the letters and telegrams written by Cohen to the company, or its officers, and to the Western Pacific Co., and certain receipts, or acquittances, of the company for money paid to Cohen by the Western Pacific Co. The fight between Cohen and the Railroad Company is waxing very hot, and bids fair to make an interesting exhibit of the manner in which the affairs of the company and the Contract and Finance Co. have been manipulated by the directors.

Distillers and Liquor Dealers Investigated.

Revenue Collector Sedgewick Injunction Dissolved.

The action brought by Charles Jost to enjoin Internal revenue collector Sedgewick from the seizure of his property on an assessment of $125,000, levied in 1875, alleged to be due from Charles Jost & Co. in 1868, was elaborately argued in the U. S. circuit court a few days since, and submitted. To-day Judge Sawyer rendered a decision discharging the injunction.

SOME EXHIBITS IN MACHINERY HALL.

The foreign exhibitors of machinery did not promise much, and will hardly even keep the slight promise they did make. England, however, and Belgium are exceptions, and are making splendid exhibits. Belgium has a mining apparatus of colossal dimensions for breaking rock and lifting up the fragments. The breaker looks like an exaggerated pile-driver, but is hollow, the interior being crossed with stout bars. The method of using this machine is to plump it down upon the refractory rock like a pile driver, and then by an ingenious apparatus it is given a half twist. The fragments are brought up by an automatic grapnel, precisely similar to the one in use at the Battery last year. Next to this machine, which, all the new comers suppose is Nasmyth's steam hammer, is the engine used in the Belgian Mint. It was constructed at Gand, and its finish is really beautiful, winning admiration from all machinists. There is one American to whose heart it is a well-spring of perpetual joy, and that is Mr. Corliss, for it is a Corliss engine, built upon his model.

Opposite to the Brazilian cannon and models of bastions, is the locomotive crane of Appleby & Co., of England, which has signalized itself of late, in a very singular manner. The English, who are very proud of their locomotive cranes, sent three of them for use and exhibition, and they have most obligingly lifted almost all the heavy weights in the building. But the other day, when lifting an eight ton case, the strain was too great for the temporary rail upon which the upper part of the crane rested, and it snapped in two, the locomotive, and crane, and all, falling over from its platform upon the cases below, and smashing them all like so many jam puffs. Strange to say, the crane itself was uninjured, and was promptly replaced upon its platform, but the foreigners have lost faith in it, and when its services are offered, they smile, and wave their hands, and shrug their shoulders, saying, "I sank you, but I weel tray to do weezout im." It is exceedingly fortunate that the crane fell to the right instead of falling to the left, for there was nothing on the former save some packing cases, whose contents were easily replaced, and were only worth about $1,200. But on the latter was the famous Walter press, exhibited by its inventor, the proprietor of the London Times, which would have been irretrievably damaged by the concussion, and which could not have been replaced in time for the opening. It will undoubtedly be one of the lions of the Exhibition, and people can easily find it by looking for the Brazilian display, which is immediately opposite and very conspicuous. It arrived only last week, and is already up, and the workmen are now busily engaged in removing from the bright parts their preservative coating of oil, and making them shine like molten silver. Other printing presses will be exhibited—the Bullock and the Hoe, the former of which is in position, though not yet ready: but the latter is very late, and will not be in time for the grand opening.—N. Y. Times.

LIFE AT THE BLACK HILLS.

A THRILLING WINTER DAY'S TRAGEDY IN CUSTER PARK.

[From the Kansas City Times.]

The tenth day of March was the coldest day experienced in the Black Hills during the entire winter. The mercury was down to 20 degrees below zero and was still sinking, while the snow rolled down in blinding eddying clouds, rendering life out of doors almost impossible. The unfortunates who were encamped in and about the neighboring gulches flocked into the dark, cheerless cabins and huddled together in shivering groups about the pitch or pine fires kept up for the free accommodation of all who might seek warmth and shelter within doors. At least thirty men had congregated in the most prominent store, the largest and best in Custer. The mud floor was rendered muddier by the thawing of the ice and snow which dripped in small streams from the rough wrappings of the cosmopolitan assemblage.

The store is a deserted military barracks, a large, low, barn-like affair, containing beds, blacksmith's forge, carpenter's bench, barroom, grocery and notion store, and reporter's desk. The centre of attraction was the bar, which was being liberally patronized by the shivering crowd.

A party of young men from Salt Lake and the mines of Nevada came rushing into the store, and, with loud, boisterous bragadocio, took possession of the bar. Ranging themselves in a row in its front, they called for "some o' that ar licker." Round after round of whisky was poured down, and still they stood and talked, and swore and laughed. They had just arrived from Cheyenne after a twenty days' voyage, and were about to separate and each go his own way, some to the north, others south, and one or two to remain; and this was the farewell drunk. For fully two hours they stood before the bar pouring down whisky, and about 1 o'clock started for the door where their teams stood shivering in the storm.

Alexander Shaw and Tom Milligan were partners, both from Salt Lake, both young, rough, but affectionate friends, just on the point of shaking hands before parting. They reached the door and rushed forth, shouting and yelling, like drunken men often do. Milligan drew his revolver and fired in the air.

"Fire lower, Tom, or you'll hit some of us," said a companion.

Too late! the pistol was raised again by the reeling man. There was a flash, a report, and Aleck Shaw reeled and fell across the threshold of the door.

"Good God! Tom, what have you done? Did you shoot Aleck, Tom?" said one of the party.

"No, he's only possumming, boys," answered Milligan. "G—d d—n you, Aleck, come and take a drink."

The reckless shooter staggered to the prostrate form which lay upon its face, and lifting him by the coat-collar, turned it over. A ghastly, sickening sight was presented to view. The pale face was striped with blood, which oozed out of a small hole in the forehead. The bullet had pierced through the brain, and had lodged behind the skull on the back of the head. For a moment the drunken man stared down into his friend's bloody face, then his countenance assumed a deadly pallor, his eyes became fixed with horror. He was sobered. Turning round to his horrified companions he said, as he threw his pistol down: "Boys, I didn't go to do it: I'll swear I didn't mean to kill him." Then bursting into tears, he clasped his hands to his face and stood sobbing like a child.

"He was the best friend I had in the world, boys, and I loved him like a brother. O God! what have I done! what have I done!"

"Let's hang him," suggested some excitable individual behind the half sobered group of Salt Lake men.

"No, no! none o' that ere business just yet in Custer. The man must have a trial," said a citizen coolly, as he drew his revolver.

"I arrest you, sir, in the name of the citizens of Custer," said Pete Mckay, the merchant, and Milligan stood meekly awaiting the grasp of the law.

"Who'll dare to arrest him?" said one of the drunken Salt Lakers. "You let go of him, you Pete McKay. You've got no legal authority to arrest him, so just take your claws off him, or I'll—"

"This is my authority," said Pete McKay, drawing his pistol. "I am a citizen of Custer, and intend to turn this man over to the city marshal. Who dares to interfere with me?"

"No one!" answered one or two of the bystanders, and a half dozen pistols flashed out from their scabbards, and for several minutes there was an ominous silence in the group. It was a fine tableaux. There lay the victim of a drunken ruffian's recklessness, the brains slowly oozing from the hole in the forehead. Over him stood the sobered ruffian, pale and paralyzed with horror, while pistol in hand stood the merchant, grasping the shoulder of the submissive Milligan, behind him a dozen or more miners, hunters and emigrants, silently supporting the stern, determined merchant, while opposite them were ranged the Salt Lake party, irresolute and surprised. It was a critical period in the history of Custer. A shot on either side would have resulted in a terrible slaughter. The least attempt to rescue Milligan would have brought forth a volley from the citizens, and then Judge Lynch would have been called in to finish up the business.

Marshal Burrows soon arrived and took charge of the prisoner. A jury was at once empanneled and a frontier trial commenced in a little log cabin, the home, office, bedroom and court-room of the provisional judge. The trial was brief, the principal witness was the reporter; nearly all the other spectators at the tragedy were too drunk to remember what transpired. The six jurymen brought in a verdict of "not guilty." Then the acquitted man was rearrested for shooting within the city limits and fined $25 and costs, which was paid, and Milligan started forth a free man, to drink, brag and shoot again should the spirit prompt him so to do. This is a true sketch of Black Hills life, and fully illustrates one of the peculiar phases of frontier justice as executed by a people who govern themselves in a little republic of their own.

O'Meagher Condon.—Regarding the liberation of O'Meagher Condon, now serving a sentence for offences committed against the English Government during the last Fenian excitement, the Pall Mall Gazette says that the Congressional resolution asking for the mediation of the United States was nothing but a party stratagem, but that if the Administration at Washington establishes its demand for his release in accordance with international law England will not be vexed at the success.—*N. THE POLITICAL TONE.

Whoever has read considerately the reports of the proceedings of political conventions all over the country, has not failed to remark the determination manifested by men of all parties to emancipate themselves from the serfdom of extreme party allegiance and to think and act for themselves more freely and unrestrainedly than ever before.

Every one is aware that a spirit of corruption dangerous to its existence pervades the body politic. Though all do not agree as to its cause and source, all admit that something must be done at once to reform abuses and make fraud and dishonesty, if not impossible, at least difficult of perpetration. As is natural, each party lays the blame for the acknowledged evil state of things on its rivals; but at the same time it is evident that people of all parties have resolved to take more pains in the selection of their leaders, and to be more sure that political ability is accompanied and controlled by political honesty. That a candidate is able, adroit and bold will, if we read the signs of the times aright, be no longer all that will be demanded. In addition, to these desirable qualifications the austere virtues of incorruptible integrity and unwavering rectitude will be indispensable requisites, and the party which recklessly or negligently puts forward men not possessing these as its candidates will meet with deserved defeat. The day of rings and unipersonal party government seems to be drawing to its close; the mass of the people seem to be awakening to a sense of the impending danger, and to an appreciation of their duties and responsibilities as citizens. The heresy that a man must vote with his party, whatever its purposes, and support its candidates, whoever they may be, has few or no supporters outside of the party ring leaders, and the men who engage in politics solely for the purpose of personal gain. These, of course, desire to have the rank and file of the party leave everything to their management. They naturally try to infuse into their followers that sort of allegiance and devotion which will induce them to give blind and unquestioning support to anything that may be proposed and to vote for any man who may be put up. These men, not willing to unfold their schemes and lay bare their plans to public inspection, regard as enemies all other men, who are independent enough to have an opinion of their own and are bold enough to express it at the polls, or still better and more effectively, at the primaries. These selfish and oligarchical leaders—tyrants rather—of party have, or seem to have, had their day. In the troublous times, when the country was agitated by war, they rose to the surface and there they have until now remained; but there are unmistakable signs of a righteous determination to have done with them and to return to a government, not of a ring, a clique, or a "party leader," but of the people, by the people, for the people.

THE SALONICA OUTRAGE.

It appears from the news received from Salonica that the outrage committed by the Mohammedan subjects of the Porte upon the Christians and foreigners resident at Salonica are in fact much worse than it at first seemed to be.

Nothing is more likely to create a row than an attempt on the part of one religious denomination to make converts from the ranks of another. Even among European nations, the case of the little Mortara boy, familiar to our readers, created a great excitement. But among a people so feeble, so ignorant, so fanatical, and so excitable by nature as the Turks it is not surprising that the act of the foreign consuls maddened the native population beyond control. Besides, to a Mohammedan the presence of a Christian in a mosque is, of itself, a desecration. They dislike such persons to enter their place of worship at any time. In the furious state of passion in which the mob at Salonica were, a much less provocation would have been enough to cause bloodshed, and when the consuls entered the mosque to take the new convert [illegible] it by force, they went into what they must have known was a most perilous place. But while this is so, and bad enough in all conscience, it seems that a pretext for doing injury to the Christians had long been wanted by the Moslem Turks, and this one was eagerly taken advantage of by the Mohammedan leaders. It is to be feared that a concerted plan exists throughout Turkey to exterminate the Christians, and rid the country of their hated presence. Of course the first attempt at carrying out this plan would draw down upon Turkey the vengeance of all Europe, and probably result in her total extinction from the category of nations. But the Turks are too ignorant and too superstitious to reason or believe anything but what their fanatical dervishes may tell them. These are blindly and fatally persistent in their efforts to foment disturbances, and their efforts are wonderfully successful. Their influence is not restricted to the masses of the people. Even the Sultan feels and yields to it, as is evidenced by the dismissal of the late Grand Vizier, who was in favor of granting the reforms proposed by the great powers, and the appointment of a new Vizier who is the recognized head of the war, or fanatical, party. The banishment of the offenders at Salonica has been demanded by France, Germany and other powers, and the result will be either that Turkey will have to eat an uncommonly large quantity of humble pie, or get uncommonly well whipped. Neither of these events would give us much regret, if it were not for the possibility that the innocent Christians in Turkey may in the contest be as great sufferers as the guilty Mohammedans.

An effort was made by the convicts confined in the Steilacoom jail, on Tuesday, to escape, by an assault on the keeper, Wm. Hawk. In the melee which ensued, one prisoner, a Frenchman, was shot and killed. All the prisoners are recaptured except one, and he will doubtless soon be apprehended.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

Please answer in your column of queries why the Emperor of Brazil is called Dom Pedro. Why should it not be Don Pedro?

Dom is the Portuguese derivative from the Latin Dominus; Don is the Spanish. The [illegible] the Portuguese [illegible].

"O, [illegible] fancy thou art a jewel." Bartlett says of this expression, that it is one of those popular sayings like "Be good and you will be happy;" like Topsy, "Never was born, only jist growed." From the earliest times it has been the popular tendency to call this or that cardinal virtue or bright, shining excellence, a jewel by way of emphasis. For example, Iago says: "Good name, in man or woman, dear, my lord, is the immediate jewel of their souls." Shakspeare elsewhere calls experience a jewel; Miranda calls her modesty the jewel of her dower. John Heywood says, Plain dealing's a jewel, &c., &c.

A GOOD NOMINATION.

The nomination of Hon. R. Stott, of Multnomah county, for Prosecuting Attorney for this district meets with general satisfaction in this county. He will poll the entire vote of both wings of the Republican party and will receive a good many Democratic votes besides. He is a native of Washington county, was raised and educated right here among us and knows our wants and will work for our interests. He was elected to the legislature at the last election on the People's ticket in Multnomah county and assisted materially in shaping and securing reform legislation whereby many thousands of dollars were saved to Washington county and the State. His Democratic competitor Fred Strong, Esq., is a worthy young man to whom we have no objection, but Mr. Stott has been so closely identified with our interests in the past that we feel safe in giving him our entire support. He has received a collegiate education, and has been for several years in the practice of law in Yamhill and Multnomah counties, and will make an efficient prosecuting attorney. He will carry this county by at least 300 majority.—Hillsboro Independent.

THE NATIONALITY OF MARRIED WOMEN.

[Representative Faulkner in the House.]

In every country except where the common law of England prevails, the nationality of a woman on marriage merges in that of the husband; she loses her own nationality and acquires his; whereas, by the common law, an English woman marrying an alien still remains a British subject. The law in this country was the same; an America woman, married to a foreigner, retained her nationality. This common law doctrine was changed in England by an act of Parliament passed in 1870, as it has been to a certain extent modified in the United States by the act of Congress of 1855. With the passage of the present bill the doctrine may be considered as settled, and alike accepted and adopted by all Christian and civilized nations, that the nationality of a married woman is merged in that of her husband. I know of no exception to this doctrine in any nation of Europe.

THE GENTLENESS OF LAMAR.—Lamar will turn out to be the most dangerous man to the Republican party in the present Congress. He has that supreme wisdom of the politician—ability to know when to hold his tongue, and strength enough to hold it. He is shrewd, steady, alert, cautious, prompt, and wonderfully strong. He is a man of fascinating address. He has the stately courtesy of a Hidalgo of the Moorish conquest, and is as communicative as Private Dalzel. He is all simplicity and condescension, and frankness and deference; and if I had my way, I would trust him with everything the Republican party owns in the world as quickly as I would trust my hand on a sweetly purring buzz saw. He is the Lucifer of the rebellious hosts. "Overhaul your Paradise Lost, and when found, make a note."

A son of Mr. Werthelmer, of Walla Walla, fell into Mill creek at that place last week. No one was in sight at the time, and the child being only three years old, was drowned. The body was found a mile below where it had fallen into the water.

A GOOD WASHING MACHINE.
THE COMPLETE WASHER.

WITH GREAT SATISFACTION WE TESTIFY to the wonderful qualities of the "COMPLETE WASHER" Machine, which is in use by many of the best families in our city, because it makes the wash day one of pleasure, and causes no wear on clothing or tire to operator. It is by excessive and exhaustive labor by the women of our land, who are toiling all day long on an ordinary family washing in the hot suds, wearing away their knuckle bones and very lives every week in the year, and going out from the seething tub to the cold air, which causes our mothers, sisters and loved ones to take cold so easily, causing pains in the back and limbs, rheumatism, neuralgia, chills and fever, etc., sometimes resulting in death. Ladies rescue yourselves from this thraldom and purchase a "Complete Washer," the Freedom Washer of our land; which economizes time and does away with this excessive labor; for you know that for one to handle by hand large articles, such as quilts, etc., that it is exceedingly difficult by the old mode. We advise and entreat everybody, therefore, to have one of these Machines. They are within the reach of every family.

Best of Wringers and Clothes Dryers always on hand.

Of the great number who have this Machine in Oregon and on the Pacific slope, not one would part with it. Hundreds and thousands of testimonials could be gotten.

ST. MICHAEL'S COLLEGE.

PRESENTATION OF A HANDSOME FLAG TO ST MICHAEL'S COLLEGE BY THE LADIES—INTERESTING EXERCISES—ETC

Yesterday afternoon witnessed an occasion which will long be held in pleasant remembrance by the pupils, teachers and patrons of St Michael s college, being the presentation to that institution of a beautiful American flag by a number of young ladies and accompanying appropriate exercises The exercises began at 3 o clock As a fitting prelude to the ceremonies, our national colors were hoisted to the summit of a staff about forty feet in height which has recently been raised from the roof of the college As the flag spread its folds to the breeze the St Michael s College band composed of pupils connected with that institution played the Star Spangled Banner in good time and with pleasing effect At the conclusion of the music the assemblage adjourned to the hall where literary exercises were held consisting of dialogues recitations declamations, etc These exercises were of a highly interesting character and reflected much credit on the pupils most of whom participated and the teachers During the exercises several airs were discoursed by the juvenile band

Following the exercises came the formal presentation of the flag to the college The presentation was made in behalf of the fair donors by the Misses Rosa Norton and Emma O Connor and the address accompanying the same, was delivered by Miss Norton This young Miss stepped forward and delivered the following address in a modest but very pleasing manner

Young Gentlemen Permit us to present to you this banner as a reward of merit and token of esteem offered to you by the Catholic ladies of Portland who being well pleased by witnessing the assiduous efforts you have manifested in your relentless pursuit of knowledge seek this method of expressing their appreciation of your well earned merit therefore we trust that you will accept it in the same spirit in which it is given and in after years prove yourselves to be worthy defenders of America s flag of the free

'Twas purchased by your fathers
Those gems of priceless worth
The truest types of manhood
That ever trod the earth

'Twas bought by them thro struggle
Thro sacrifice sublime—
And stands a monument
For all approaching time

When Miss Norton had finished the band rendered the "Star Spangled Banner," after which Master John O Connor formally accepted the beautiful present and responded in fitting terms on behalf of the College The choir sang a piece entitled "A Thousand Years Ago" in a very creditable manner Mr S J McCormick was then introduced and addressed the assemblage briefly, but in a manner which pleased all During his remarks Mr McCormick congratulated the ladies on their noble efforts in raising funds and procuring such a handsome and appropriate gift the pupils of the college for the proficiency they had evinced during the exercises the teachers for their judicious and careful instructions the good fruits of which were so manifest and lastly the parents of the pupils and the patrons of the institution on the creditable manner in which the exercises had been conducted and in behalf of the teachers thanked them for their presence on the happy occasion Mr McCormick also spoke in complimentary terms of the proficiency shown by the members of the band and of the superior character of the music rendered About two hundred persons were present to witness the exercises. [From the Evening Journal]

As an item of interest worthy of publication in these Centennial times we give below a list of the subscribers to the old Trinity church building erected in 1854 on the northwest corner of Oak and Second streets. It was lately found on a waste leaf of an old account book once belonging to the then distinguished firm of Breck & Ogden In the 22 years that have elapsed since the building of this pioneer church great changes have taken place in the city The old building after being cut in two and much enlarged was removed to the corner of Oak and Sixth streets where under the shadow of its imposing successor—new Trinity Church—it did duty as a chapel and Sunday school room There trying on belonging it was moved some three years since to the corner of First and Carothers streets where it is known and used as the church building of St Matthew s Mission Some of the subscribers have gone to that bourne whence no traveler returns and some have removed to other places but by far the larger part we are happy to say are still among us and enjoying the legitimate fruits of their early liberality and enterprise The good missionary of that day Bishop Scott is down for $47 being by far the largest contribution of any He has gone to his reward but his labors live after him W S Ladd C H Lewis H W Corbett and H Failing, C O Failing, Henry Failing were then among the beginners and small subscribers Since that day Providence has blessed their store and for years they have led the way in contributions to every good and useful work in the city

Capt George H Flanders Uncle George to his numerous relatives and friends call him now—heads the list with one of the largest subscriptions and so he has continued ever since always cheerfully bearing more than his share of the good works of the community and never sending the needy away empty handed On the other hand some are scarcely as well to do now as then But they have the comfortable assurance that this sum at least is save from the vicissitudes of earthly fortune laid up where neither moth nor rust doth consume

DEATH UNDER THE WHEELS.

We are in receipt of a letter from Gold Hill, under date of M [illegible] the writer says

Last Saturday April 29th about half past 2 P M a man by the name of Lewis Johnson got run over by a train of cars on the railroad at Gold Hill which cut both legs off, and from the effects of which he died the next day He told me he had a wife and children in Portland, Oregon and from a certificate I found in his trunk I find he has been an engineer on some of your river boats Not knowing where to find his family I thought it best to write to you at I s it you could give me any information about them I enclose I will send you a paragraph that I cut out of the Territorial Enterprise which will explain the accident better than I can He left a few tools and some working clothes but I do not think they are worth the freight it would cost to send to your place His brother A F John son in Minnesota has been having telegraph communication with a Mr Morgan of this place authorizing him to give deceased a decent burial promising to defray the expenses of the same If you should succeed in finding the family I will thank you kindly to send me their address and if they want any more information I will give them all I can obtain We buried Mr Louis Johnson to day

The following is the enclosed paragraph alluded to by the writer

Shortly after 2 o clock this afternoon the regular passenger train which leaves Carson at 12 o clock M arrived at the Gold Hill depot and after the usual stoppage was just starting up for Virginia, when Louis Johnson an engineer, well known in this community rushed up and tried to spring upon one of the ore cars or dumps which were ahead of the passenger coach He caught at the break or the arrangement which controls the trap-door at the bottom of the dump and it turned causing him to swing around and fall backwards down between the cars with his legs across the rails The brakeman immediately gave the signal and the train was stopped as quickly as possible but not until two of the ore cars had passed over the legs of the unfortunate man Indeed so promptly was the train stopped that the recoil of the reversal sent one of the cars back across his legs a second time As each car passed over his body was rolled about pretty roughly The right leg was destroyed at the knee joint merely hanging by a few shreds and had to be removed The left leg was nearly severed a short distance below the knee, and will also have to be amputated He is considerably bruised about the body but the nature or extent of his injuries could not be fully ascertained until he could be properly stripped

Mr Johnson has lived here for some years and has a family of a wife and two children He was last employed at the Florida mine He is twenty-eight years old and a native of Sweden

More than half my scalp was without hair and a smooth and shining surface for fifteen years but now owing to the benefits of the truly wonderful effects of the hair producers of Mrs H A Moore, I am in possession of a healthy vigorous growth of hair three inches in length which is an astonishment to myself and acquaintances

A RELIC OF SLAVERY IN WASHINGTON

[Early 's Letter to Boston Journal]

The attachment of many of the emancipated slaves for many of their former owners is a subject of frequent comment here and a police reporter gives the following example. An old white woman was arraigned yesterday morning for drunkenness, found guilty and sentenced to seven days in the workhouse. She sat down in a corner of the dock, and soon afterward the court having adjourned an old colored man came in bringing a pitcher of coffee and a plate of provisions and approaching the marshal he asked in an agitated voice

"Boss, is yer got an old white lady in dar named Riley?"

Some one replied in the affirmative, and the old man's face brightened up at once. Turning to a number of gentlemen who were standing near he said

"Gemmen I heerd dis mornin dat de per lice had [illegible] my ol missus and I cum here to see her and dey wouldn't lemme in. Dat old lady gemmen was a rich woman onst and I was her servant. She raise I me from a small chile and when I heerd of de trouble she was in I felt just like crying and when I cum here and dey wouldn't lemme see her sez I I sez she aint had nuffin ter eat and I took all de money I had in de world and fetched it to her"

He then advanced toward the dock calling her by name and when she appeared, said

"Old Missus here's suthin I done brought for yer to eat. You was kind to me onst, yer was, and I se gwine to help dem as was good to me"

The old woman burst into tears as she accepted the bounty of her former slave and subsequently she emancipated herself from drunkenness by signing the temperance pledge

NAMES OF THE MISSISSIPPI

AN INTERESTING COLLECTION OF TERMS ONCE APPLIED TO THE RIVER.

[St Louis Republican]

Gen J H Simpson has in his possession a manuscript letter, of an old date, addressed to him by Brantz Mayer, president of the Baltimore Academy of Natural Science, in which he gives the names he remembered to have seen in the course of his reading applied to the Father of Waters by the Indians Spanish and French. Mr Mayer adds in his note that it would be well to record them for preservation and probably to be augmented in number by other students of American history The following is Mr Mayer's list

Indian names—Mico king of rivers

Mescha sibi—Mescha Great, and sibi, river

Namosi sipou Fish river.

Okimo-chitto, Great war path a Choctaw name

M[illegible]

Meact-chassipi, Old Father of rivers, according to Du Pratz

Malbouchi according to Iberville

French names—Riviere de St Louis River de Colbert, Mississippi.

Spanish names—Rio Grande Rio Grande del Esperata Santo Rio de la Cultas, Rio de la Palisade

The Venice Ptolemy of 1513 lays it down or at least marks a river without a name at the site of the embouchure. Orbus Typus 1515 Pinedas May, 1518. Other Ptolemys 1525 Cobeza de Vaca saw it 1528 De Soto crossed it in June 1541, and died in Louisiana on the west bank of the Mississippi opposite the mouth of the Big Black river, 21st May, 1542

GRANGERS AT THE CENTENNIAL

[Washington correspondence of the Baltimore Sun]

The patrons of husbandry, or as they are more familiarly called, the grangers have made preparations on an extensive scale for the accommodation of members of their order during the exhibition. A tract of land at Elm station, on the Philadelphia road about four miles and a half from the Centennial grounds, has been secured, and arrangements have been made with the railroad company by which passengers are to be conveyed to and from the grounds from this locality for 15 cents a round trip or 10 cents one way. Wooden buildings have been erected capable of accommodating 2,400 people and the tariff of prices has been fixed at 50 cents for every meal, and 50 cents for a night's lodging. For persons who desire to spend the day at the Centennial grounds, but who may not care to go to the restaurants on the grounds lunches will be prepared. The buildings are located upon high grounds with a number of springs and fine trees in the vicinity. The buildings each contain 92 rooms 46 on each side of a broad corridor. The rooms are 12 by eight feet, and the doors all open on the corridor light and air being admitted by numerous windows and transoms

SOUTHERN CAPITAL.—The repeated cry of poverty from the South is rather anomalous in view of a constant succession of good crops. The cotton now being marketed has already reached 3 813 000 bales and will probably run up a total of 4,500 000 before September 1st. The exports of raw cotton to foreign countries has risen from 2,153,000 bales in 1875 to 2 643 000 in 1876 the demand showing an unexpected elasticity. Of course prices have been low but the return on the whole ought to profit the South. The Charleston News however complains that there is less money (capital?) in South Carolina now than there was ten years ago, and warns the agents of Northern fertilizers that the planters are "very poor" and cannot invest. It notes a tendency to rely on the small grains and make cotton an incidental crop. There is wisdom in a diversification of industry but cotton must always be the chief reliance of the cotton States for profitable agriculture. Thrift is the great need whatever the crop —Springfield Republican

MISS YZNAGA NOT TO HAVE A TITLE — Two great marriages are postponed—that of Miss Yznagna to Viscount Mandeville and Miss May to James Gordon Bennett. The report goes that Lord Mandeville is ordered home, his father having threatened to cut him off without a shilling if he does not obey the parental commands and refused utterly to receive an American daughter in law. Miss Yznaga was indignant as a beauty and heiress has a right to be for though the title is old and highly respectable the duke of Manchester is very much impoverished and the duchess of Manchester is not received by the Queen. In the other case Prince Jim did not keep his promise of being a good boy so he is put on probation. After several weeks absence from the rink he drove out however, with his affianced the other day so that the match may be considered delayed not broken off —Jennie June's New York letter to Baltimore American

Rev. Lyman Abbott has published a pamphlet on the Uncontradicted Testimony in the Beecher Case. It now he will print one authentically containing the Uncontradicted Testimony in the Beecher Case perhaps he can settle it —The Congregationalist

The monetary situation is still quiet [illegible] the beginning of fair weather has given [illegible] more life to business and somewhat [illegible] movement in business circles [illegible] financial favors are not frequent nor the volume of loans large. The city banks [illegible] are doing a fair and safe business which [illegible] fair to increase at least for a fortnight after which it is expected to be another lull until the new crop is ready to be moved. Local improvements are being pushed forward with more vigor and disbursements on this account are increased very materially. Merchants from the interior are remitting balances in settlement of bills for spring stocks with about the average promptness and altogether there is a perceptible augmentation of the volume of capital in general circulation though but little is comparatively being paid out for agricultural products. The idea is generally entertained among business men that the dullest point in the season is past

It [illegible] to [illegible] owners of large amounts [illegible] the [illegible] cover how [illegible] with profit. The [illegible] as soon as the incoming most abundant harvest [illegible] has been garnered and the surplus in a fair way of conversion into gold or needed merchandise the problem will be still more difficult of solution. It is clear that unless some unforeseen disturbance should occur interest rates must come down a peg or two at present they are nominally unchanged from last quotations

The San Francisco mint has been worked to its full capacity the coinage for April being $3 [illegible] 000 of which $ [illegible] 000 were in double eagles and the balance in silver. There are now in the mint $1 060 000 in ten cent pieces coined for transmission to the East but a recent order requires that they should be re-examined and all the badly formed pieces remelted and recoined. With the present force it will require a year to complete the job

To Owners of Marine Craft

Under date of April 8th the Treasury Department sent to the various customs authorities a circular letter from which an extract is as follows

The attention of the Department has been called to the fact that vessels which are sailing under marine documents have not the name and the port to which they belong painted on the stern on a black ground in white yellow or gilt letters of not less than three inches in length as required by law [See Secs 4178 [illegible] R S and Act of June 1874 U S Stats at Large Vol 18 Part 3 Chap 30]

Chief officers of the customs will therefore cause an examination to be made in each case so as to satisfy themselves that this requirement of law has been literally complied with before granting such documents

Liverpool Wheat Market

The following is our special cablegram of wheat quotations direct from Liverpool

LIVERPOOL May 11 1876

OREGONIAN Portland To day Liverpool wheat market closed with Oregon wheat ex warehouse quotable at 10s per cental. The market is inactive.

HENRY JUMP & SONS

The foregoing corresponds with the regular press dispatches, and shows a decline of 2d since last week's report. Proportionately the quotations for Oregon cargoes afloat would be 9s 4d@ 9s [illegible]

Domestic Produce.

The market in this respect is but little changed [illegible] anything that has transpired so far during the week. The wheat trade is much depressed and at almost a standstill as exporters have enough to fill their immediate wants and buying on speculation is not thought of just now especially as holders of the surplus yet in the country not being at all compelled to sell are strongly disinclined to concede to present offers. Flour is in fair supply at the usual rates and few important transactions are occurring. Hay and mill feed have a weaker tendency but quotations are nominally sustained. Provisions of all kinds are active at full rates. Dairy products of choice quality are in good request at quotations and eggs being scarce for the local trade have advanced 2 cents and are now jobbing at 20 cents per dozen. Poultry and game of the season are abundant. There are no new features in the wool trade which still has an unfavorable aspect as to the future
